LuNcHoLOgy®, a company that makes children's lunch bags with educational, entertaining and inspirational messages on the OUTSIDE is turning its attention to what kids put INSIDE their lunch bags.

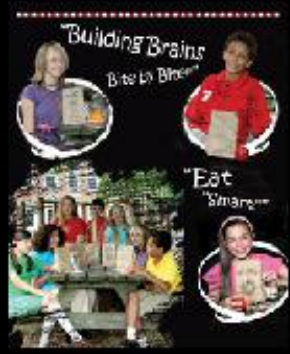

Concerns about the dangers of childhood obesity led LuNcHoLOgy® President Kristi Thomas to use her company's influence with children and their parents to do something about it. Ms. Thomas and her 12 year old daughter Madison have developed fun recipes for heart healthy and kid friendly bag lunches that kids can make for themselves. The LuNcHoLOgy® Mother Daughter Duo share these ideas with audiences across the country in their: "We're Kids and We're Cookin': Kid Friendly and Heart Healthy Recipes" Stage Show.

Kristi and Madison Thomas will be appearing on the Atlantic City Food & Wine Festival Stage and will be preparing kid-friendly recipes developed by Madison, while sharing fun nutritional, "Betcha' Didn't Know" factoids throughout the show. This 30 minutes show is zany and captivating, while teaching important food science that encourages kids to make more nutritious food choices.

All Child Attendees at the LuNcHoLOgy® show will receive a free LuNcHoLOgy® Recipe Bag with the recipe from the show printed right on the front, as well as some of the ingredients placed inside, so every child attendee can make the recipe at home with their Mom or Dad, too. This Mom and Daughter Duo's favorite recipe is their "Stick-Wich®," a fresh and fun take on the sandwich and the "Under Cover Chocolate Strawberry®," exactly what it says it is!

Young Chef Madison Thomas will be on hand at the end of each LuNcHoLOgy® Stage Show to autograph bags for kids and their families.
